OUR DEVELOPMENT PROCESS

We take a structured approach to web design. Our development process was created to ensure every project is delivered on-time and on-budget. Once your web design project kicks off here's what to expect:

Initial Planning

The first order of business is to meet with your team to understand Fractured Atlas needs and create a detailed set of design and technical specifications. These specifications serve as a roadmap for the rest of the web design process. We then plan out the architecture of the site including navigation, new functionality and design.

Wireframing / Examples

Wireframes and examples give an initial visual representation of the site's overall layout and design.

Mockups

This is the phase that your website starts to come to life. The backend of the website and new theme are installed. We add color and detail to the wireframes, giving a stronger visual representation of the final product.

Development

We finalize the site's copy, graphics and setting up your website's analytics and get to work performing SEO and competitive research. The bulk of the website development is during this phase.

Testing

Your website is in its final stage. Our Quality Assurance team will get to work testing the site's performance and reliability. We'll use various tools to benchmark the site for loading, responsiveness, and speed, while also ensuring that it works reliably and seamlessly on all web browsers and mobile devices.

Training & Deployment

Fractured Atlas employees will be trained on how to do basic updates to the website. Goboto will create training videos on how to update pages, create blog posts, editing text and uploading images among other tasks.

Launch

The final website being fully designed, functional and will go live.

TECHNICAL VOLUME

I. Usability and Accessibility Standards

The site will be built according to W3C/WCAG 2.0 AA web standards using clean and semantic markup. The website will be fully responsive with a design that adapts to the screen size of the visitors device. The site will also be retina ready for devices with retina or other high-resolutions. Any slideshows for are also touch enabled and hardware accelerated, which means they work seamless on mobile device like an iPad or iPhone. It will be cross-browser compatible (FireFox, Safari, Chrome, IE8, IE9, IE10, IE11, Edge.) The site will be able to be translated in any language or multiple languages including RTL functionality (right to left reading.) For users that cannot use a mouse, including many older users with limited fine motor control, the site will provide full functionality via a keyboard. All images will have effective 'alternative text' for users that cannot see and use a screen reader that reads aloud the information on a page, including the alt text for the visual image. The site is fundamentally designed to work for all people, whatever their hardware, software, language, culture, location, or physical or mental ability.

The site will be built in HTML5 and CSS3 with jQuery enhancements and Bootstrap 4.
